The Prodigal Father?

“But while he was still far off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion; he ran and put his arms around him and kissed him.... But the father said to his slaves, ‘Quickly, bring out a robe – the best one – and put it on him; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. And get the fatted calf and kill it, and let us eat and celebrate; for this son of mine was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found!’” – Luke 15: 20, 22-24

The parable Jesus tells in Luke 15: 11-32, is most widely known as the Prodigal Son. Remember the young son who asks for his inheritance before his father has died and then squanders it in “dissolute living” in a distant country? You know the story: after blowing all his money, suffering amongst the pigs during a famine, he finally decides to go home to offer to be a servant of his father instead of a son.

I have always focused on the behavior of the sons. There is the young son who thought he deserved his father’s wealth, but then realizes he doesn’t even deserve the love of his father. And then there is the older son who agrees that the younger son does not deserve the love of the father, because he is the responsible one who truly deserves the love and wealth of the father. (I’d like to pretend I am like the younger son, but really I am just like the older son – I am first born after all).

Prodigal = recklessly extravagant, lavishly abundant

They are both wrong, of course. You cannot deserve or earn the free gift of love and compassion! You cannot deserve or earn grace, mercy, or forgiveness! This isn’t a story about a Prodigal son, but about a Prodigal father, who is recklessly extravagant in his love and compassion, lavishly abundant in giving grace, mercy, and forgiveness to his children, both sons and daughters!

We do not deserve, we cannot earn the love of God given to us through the suffering and death of His only Son, Jesus Christ, on the cross. We can only receive the gift of the Good News with trembling wonder and thanksgiving, and rejoice, joining in the celebration when God’s sons and daughters return to be embraced by the reckless and costly love of God in Jesus Christ. Won’t you join us in the celebration and spread the Good News?

Yours in Christ,

Pastor Kent Claussen Gubrud

ADULT EDUCATION and DISCIPLESHIP

March Adult Sunday Forums

March 7, 9:45am – “Binding and Loosing the Scripture”

This was one of the most challenging and enlightening subjects of the series “How Lutherans Interpret the Bible: the ELCA and Homosexuality.” We will look at both Biblical and historical examples of binding and loosing scripture in terms of ethics, morality, society, and the life of the Church.

March 14, 9:45am – “The ELCA: local, national, and global ministries”

In addressing the conflict over the ELCA National Assembly vote regarding homosexuality, the question has arisen, “what’s the ELCA all about, and what difference does it make to be part of the ELCA?” This forum will address these questions and help us understand the length and breadth of the ministries of the ELCA of which we are a part.

April Adult Sunday Forum Series – “Praying Like Jesus”

Beginning Sunday, April 11, 9:45am in the Fellowship Hall (5 sessions)

Jesus helped his disciples – then and now – to answer questions about praying to the Lord and Creator of the Universe. In the process, Jesus the Christ, completely redefined existing religious conventions regarding prayer. Jesus taught us that we can address God intimately as our “Daddy” (Abba). And we don’t pray to inform God or persuade Him to do our will, but to be reformed and transformed by God so that our will may become aligned with His will.

Calling all Superheroes!

Ever wonder what it would feel like to be a superhero? Now is your chance! It's Minnesota FoodShare month, and the need is greater than ever. There was a 24% increase in Minnesota food shelf visits from 2008 to 2009, which is the largest recorded increase in 28 years. With the numbers of hungry friends and neighbors increasing and the ranks of those able to help meet that need dwindling, our challenge to keep the food shelves stocked is large indeed.

Christus Victor, are you up for the challenge? After last year's incredibly successful food drive we believe you are! What makes March Minnesota FoodShare such a terrific opportunity to make a difference is the fact that our donations are matched dollar for dollar, pound for pound by businesses and other organizations in our area. Considering there were approximately 3 million food shelf visits in Minnesota last year with 61 MILLION pounds of food distributed, the March matched donations play a significant role in helping feed those in need.

Social Ministries is enlisting all those ready, willing, and able to join the ranks of the superheroes in making this year's food drive another fantastic success in fighting hunger. Once again we are offering two ways for you to participate: by bringing in non-perishable food items OR by making a monetary donation. The food shelf is able to get more bang for the buck than we can at local stores, so monetary gifts are always welcome. We will have our shopping cart in the Narthex to collect food items, and you will find envelopes for monetary donations on the front of the cart (checks should be made to Christus Victor, with a notation for the food drive).

You can make a difference in the lives of others by the simple yet profound gift of helping put food on someone's table. You can help make sure families don't have to skip meals to make ends meet. You, in short, can be a superhero to those who need help and hope for a better tomorrow. So, don your mask, throw on that cape, and let's fill those food shelves to overflowing! (Spandex optional)

Easy Ways to Build Assets for and with Your Child

FAST FACTS

ASSET #18: Youth Programs

Youth are more likely to grow up healthy when they spend three or more hours per week in sports, clubs, or school and/or community organizations.

58% of youth surveyed by Search Institute have this asset in their lives.*

What Are Assets? Assets are 40 values, experiences, and qualities that help kids succeed. "Youth programs" is one of four constructive-use-of-time assets.

* Based on Search Institute surveys of 217,277 6th- to 12th-grade youth throughout the United States during the 1999-2000 school year.

E Is for Essential

It's appropriate that the word "extracurricular" starts with the letter E. But the word should be 'essential-curricular' rather than 'extracurricular.' In fact, they're so important many schools are starting to call them 'cocurricular' activities.

To many young people, youth programs at school and in the community are the highlight of their day. They meet new people who share their interests or introduce them to new ones. They spend time with adults who enjoy the activity. And they boost their skills.

But that's not all these activities do. They can help children channel aggressive behavior. In addition, researcher Laurence Steinberg, Ph.D., says extracurricular activities provide these benefits:

- Unique learning opportunities—Young people get to learn new skills that their academic courses rarely teach. Children get the chance to exercise their initiative and independence.
- Teamwork emphasis—A spirit of cooperation is encouraged, since most after-school programs are group activities.

- Educational interests—Often, young people who aren't particularly interested in academics get turned on to a subject through an after-school activity.
- Connections to caring adults—People who supervise after-school activities develop important relationships with kids. Young people often turn to a coach or adviser if they have concerns or problems.
- Opportunities to meet new friends—After-school activities create another way for young people to meet new friends to develop more relationships.

Helpful Hints for Detecting Overload

Activities through youth programs are important, but kids can get too busy with them. These signs may indicate your child has activity burnout. Watch when your child:

- Has little time to relax, hang out, and have fun.
- Seems unhappy.
- Often complains about being tired or ill.
- Struggles to concentrate.
- Becomes more irritable.
- Wants to drop out of everything.

time together

Three ways to get your child involved in youth programs:

1. Ask your school or community center for a list of after-school activities. Discuss options with your child.
2. Consider helping your child start a new club (such as photography or skateboarding) if one of interest doesn't exist. Find out how to get (or be) an advisor. Model having an "extracurricular activity" yourself. If they have time, parents should also have hobbies or activities that they do outside of a job and/or home.
- 3.

talk together

Questions to discuss with your child:

- How do you feel about the number of youth programs you're currently involved in?
- How can we get a good sense of balance between youth programs, family time, and school?
- What do you enjoy about belonging to a club, organization, or sport?
- Which activities might you be interested in? How can we learn more about them?

Quick Tip: Youth programs can build as many as 23 assets.

5 Keys to Youth Programs

"Extracurricular activities help children discover who they are and what they like to do," says author Diana Townsend-Butterworth. She gives these five tips for balancing school and other youth programs:

1. Be clear about your priorities. School comes first. Activities are second.
2. Find out more before your child jumps in. How much practice time is involved? Is your child a good match for this activity?
3. Examine activities on an ongoing basis. Do they fit with your family schedule? Are they meeting your child's needs?
4. Encourage activities that focus on fun or healthy competition, especially during the elementary and middle school years.
5. Help your child find a balance so that he or she isn't scheduled from morning to night.
